PROGRAM OVERVIEW/SEASON REVIEW

In 2005, head coach Graeme McGravie inherited a rugby program that was spinning its wheels and had just come off a 3-5 season. Concordia had higher aspirations for its women's rugby team as did McGravie. The goal was to build it into an elite, nationally-respected program. In each of his six seasons as coach, McGravie has moved the program forward.

To play rugby at Concordia under McGravie's supervision, it's an eight-month, five-day a week commitment. There's a big emphasis on out-of-season training that has paid off handsomely for the Stingers. Concordia opened a $4.4 million state-of-the-art dome at its Loyola campus in 2009. The Stinger Dome, an air-supported structure, offers women's rugby great opportunities to move its training and commitment forward.

McGravie has brought his Stingers to the playoffs for six consecutive seasons. Concordia played in the Quebec conference championship in each of the last four seasons, winning in 2007, 2009 and 2010.

In 2010, the Stingers finished with an 11-0 win-loss record, including exhibition games and playoffs. The campaign started with three preseason contests, including a victory over the Western Mustangs, a perennial rugby powerhouse.

"Beating Western in the preseason was a great confidence builder, a great way to get things started," said McGravie. "Also, beating Laval early in the season gave us the self-belief we need to go through the regular season."

The Stingers finished the Quebec regular season in first place with a 6-0 record. Concordia outscored its opponents 243 to 53.

In the semifinals, the Stingers defeated the fourth-place Ottawa Gee-Gees 33-5. Concordia went on to beat the second-place Laval Rouge et Or 13-8 to win the Quebec crown on Oct. 29. It was the fourth consecutive time the two teams battled in the Quebec final with Concordia winning three of the four contests.

"In some ways, this is a more satisfying championship than last year," McGravie said. "Last year was the benchmark, and this year the goal was to meet it. It was a challenge. We lost four big veterans from last year and we needed four rookies to step in their shoes. When Jessie Lapointe came in at scrumhalf – she came in late – that was the linchpin."

Looking at the nationals in Peterborough, Ont., there is a definite goal.

"We want to come home with a medal," said McGravie. "We were so close last year (fourth-place finish). Anything less will not satisfy us. It's all we've been talking about all year."

What will be the key to having success at the nationals?

"We have to get points when we have the chance," said the coach. "In this type of tournament, especially with the bonus point system, we have to score."

"In 2007 when we came to nationals we were like deer in the headlights. In 2009, we were happy to go but I don't think we had the belief. This year, we're going to hit the ground running."

Graeme McGravie

HEAD COACH GRAEME MCGRAVIE

Graeme McGravie took over as head coach of the Concordia Stingers women's rugby team in 2005 after three seasons as head coach of the men's squad. McGravie is a fully-certified Level 3 coach with a wealth of experience at all coaching levels.

McGravie has enjoyed great success at the CIS level, being named both QSSF and CIS Women's Rugby Coach of the Year in 2007. He has brought the Stingers to the women's playoffs for six consecutive seasons. Concordia played in the Quebec conference championship in each of the last four seasons, winning in 2007, 2009 and 2010.

He has been involved in coaching provincial teams as head coach of the Quebec men's entry at the Canada Summer Games in 1997 and as an assistant coach with the 2001 team. He was at the helm of the Montreal Menace, which represented Quebec in the Canadian Rugby Super League from 2000 to 2002.

McGravie also has a lot of experience working with student-athletes. He served as head coach of the Dawson College men's rugby team from 1997 to 2001 and held various high school coaching positions in the west end of Montreal — at both public and private schools — between 1987 and 1997.

"I know the game of rugby well and I'm prepared for whatever the game has to offer," says McGravie. "My biggest job is to get the team physically and mentally prepared. There are a lot of young athletes making the jump to university rugby, and it's a big jump. But the 18 to 23 year old athletes are the ones you can have the most fun with. They are very focused."

His career record with Concordia women's rugby is 46-21-1.

McGravie is an employee of Concordia University, working as an admissions counsellor in the Faculty of Arts and Science. He graduated from McGill University with a bachelor degree in Social Work.

JACKIE TITTLE QSSF ALL-STAR & MVP

Jackie Tittle came to Concordia University after an outstanding career with John Abbott College, Quebec U19 and with the Canadian U20 Team – all three of which she captained.

She brings a lot of skills and character with her, especially for a young player.

"Jackie is a dream to coach," said Concordia head coach Graeme McGravie. "Jackie is always working hard to improve not only her game, but the game around her. She leads her team from the front both on and off the field with her dedication and play."

From a skill point, McGravie says she has it all. She can kick, pass, run, tackle.

"She's such a dominant force, other teams in Quebec scheme to run away from her," McGravie says. "But she can run side-to-side with anyone. She can adapt on the fly and she makes tackles for other people. Jackie has worked diligently on improving her strength in contact areas and has become one of the best tacklers in the province."

Some very accomplished players have suited up for Concordia women's rugby over the years – Erin Dance, Josée Lacasse, Sheila Turner, Sommer Christie, Natascha Wesch. McGravie says Tittle has a place among them as she continues to work hard.

"I'm building my team around her for the next few years, definitely," he said. "And she's the type of student-athlete that attracts other good players to your program. She has proved that again this year."
